He explained the characteristics of organic manure. Maintains soil fertility. The use of organic fertilizers improves the physical, chemical and biological properties of the soil and increases the yield. The water holding capacity of the soil increases. It helps in proper drainage of water. The student teachers got useful information about this.

There are different types of organic fertilizers. For example, vermicompost, cow dung, compost, fish manure, chicken manure, out of which cow dung and compost are produced in this factory. Naturally occurring organic fertilizers include mouse processes, decomposed plant matter, sea bird droppings. These include animal waste, decomposed plant material, manure made from seabird droppings.

Thus, in Ashoka Agro Solutions Pokharni factory, student teachers got useful information about what is organic fertilizer, its production and the characteristics of these fertilizers during the visit to this factory.
